WELL PROGRESS

Well Diggin'

The search for water continues! We had hoped to report a solution to our water problems in this issue of La Vista, but it still evades us. While we have found a bunch of water at a shallow depth, it is terribly salty, worse than seawater. We are currently working on some wells through the salt-water layer looking for good water below. However, an alternative may be presenting itself. The city of Huatabampo has been working on a community water system for this area. This was not a new project two years ago, so I have not expected immediate action, but a city representative recently assured me it would be soon (Not exactly the first time that has been said). However, the city administration recently changed hands and we are hoping for action! Please continue to join us in prayer for water.

The salt is visible on our land especially after the rain

Travels

In October and November, we will be traveling to Los Mochis, to the South and Caborca and Hermosillo to the North to present and give away our curriculums. These trips could more than double our current exposure as each of the three cities are larger than Huatabampo!

Production

Printing again! We spent over $1000 on paper this month, and it is all printed and ready to go out (Some has already gone out!) Mostly children's ministry materials that we give to churches that can little afford it. We were completely out of the Mathew and Armor of God curriculums as well as other things. A neat aside, each kid involved gets a booklet of the book of the Bible being studied. In the past, we have used the RVA version, (think King James), but the International Bible Society has agreed to allow us to print limited quantities in the new NVI (Spanish version of the NIV), much more readable for kids. Praise God!

Writing

The other main effort taking place right now is writing the next curriculum. Kristi is working really hard, but this is a huge project. It kills us to realize that churches using our material are using it faster than we can get new material out! Please pray for energy and encouragement for Kristi. If you have skills you are willing to use, possibly artistic, to draw coloring pages, invent games, develop mazes and word-games or whatever, please contact us for an assignment.

New Curriculum scheduled for completion and distribution in Nov!

It was great to see Pete and Debbie McHugh here, visiting and dropping off supplies! We look forward to Ko and Jan Krauss (Dwight's parents) who are coming for a stay (They think they are retired... hee hee)

We love the technology that makes quick work

We have been concerned with the growth of our distribution of children's ministry materials. We can't keep up with demand! We had considered selling the materials for our cost, about $0.25 per kid for a 3 month program. We have recently received council from several sources to keep giving it away, and we see merit in that. We will continue to give the material away free as long as we can. We are currently producing material for 3000 kids for 6 months and we expect that and more will be gone by the end of the year!
